

Internship Marketing and Sales

About two thirds of global carbon emissions are emitted in products' supply chains. At the same time most companies do not know their sub suppliers. We developed a cloud platform that helps companies to discover their supply chain, monitor carbon emissions, and take effective action to improve their entire supply chain.

Become a part of our interdisciplinary team and help us thrive this mission.

We are looking for student interns to support our marketing and sales team but also to support in customer projects. This is your change to develop yourself and achieve something positive for our climate and society at the same time!

Your tasks

- You research and qualify leads and add them to our CRM system
- You email and call leads
- You prepare and revise sales meetings
- You support the preparation of events
- You take care of our homepage content and marketing channels
- You co-create articles for our blog and LinkedIn channels

Your profile

- You are working on your masters' degree in communication, marketing, BA, sustainability management or similar studies
- You work well in a team, have a keen perception and structured way of working
- You feel at ease with quickly adapting to new tasks and understanding your work environment
- You know your ways around Microsoft Office (esp. Powerpoint)
- You have great writing skills for marketing content and/or reports
- Experience in WordPress and/or social media marketing are a great extra

Interested?

We offer a highly flexible working time, a place in the accelerator "Startplatz", in Cologne next to the media park and a diverse and exceptionally open team.

Not only during the Corona times we offer working flexibly from home; if necessary, your entire internship can be remote. In the best case your internship duration should be three months.

Just send a short cv to jobs@sustainabill.de which includes your motivation and a potential starting time for your internship. Please refer to this job description when applying.